After questions, SAD 44 budget passes with ease

By ALISON ALOISIO

About 60 voters turned out Tuesday and questioned SAD 44 Supt. Dave Murphy about administrative costs, unexpended balances and other items, but in the end they easily passed the proposed $10.3 million school budget.

The one article that required a secret ballot — the question on raising $1,065,767 in additional local funds — passed 49-7.

The budget, which represents a 3.8 percent increase in the average local share, goes next to validation referendum in each town on June 11.

As he has at recent School Board and selectmen's meetings, Murphy began Tuesday's meeting by reiterating the administration's intent to address the recent "F" grade given to Telstar High School and Andover Elementary School by the state.

There were no specific questions about the grades from residents at the meeting.

But some did want to know why the district spends more per pupil than the state average.

Murphy said that is not unusual in small school systems.

"If you're running your own school system and you have any type of administration whatsoever, that amount is going to get divided by a smaller number of students than if you have a much larger school system," he said.

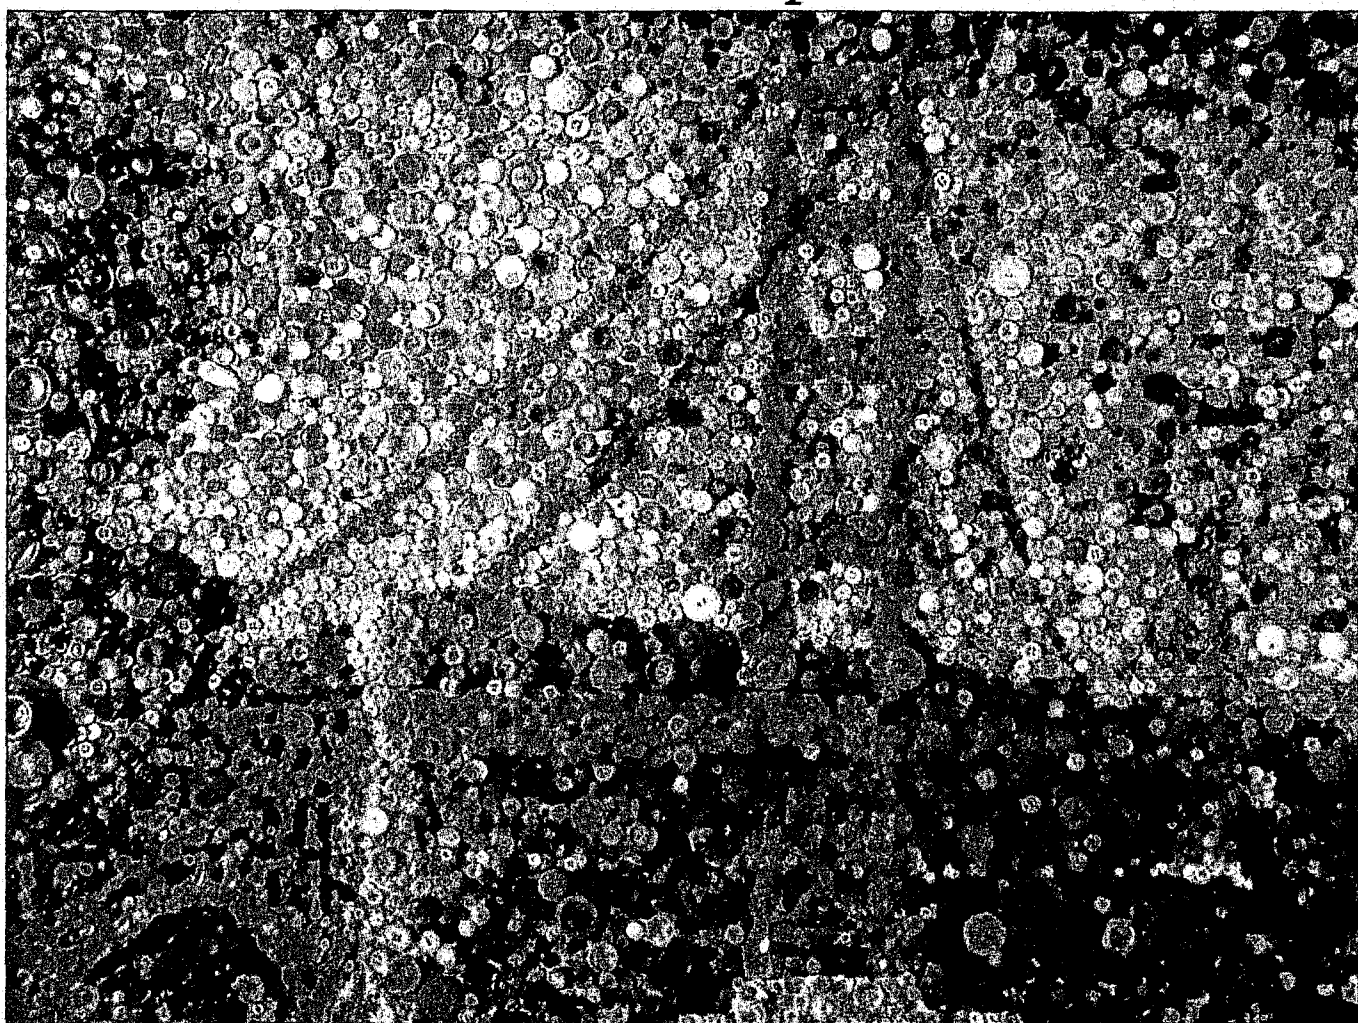

Murphy added that 12 years ago Central Office costs (including his office, the School Board, and legal costs) were about $320,000, compared to a figure of $399,000 for next year.

He also said there are two full-time principals in SAD 44, one at THS and one at Telstar Middle School. In addition, he said, there is a dean of students at THS, a position that deals more directly with students than the principal does, and also works with social workers and other support people on student issues. He likened the job in some ways to a vice principal.

There are two teaching principals at the elemen-

Peg Fraser Webber, 96, a native of Andover and a Gould Academy graduate, currently lives at the St. Anne's Home in San Francisco. She was recently featured in the home's newsletter for this button mosaic she created of the Golden Gate Bridge. She initially used a large collection of buttons that had been donated to the home to make bookmarks, cards and jewelry. But after attending a mosaic art show, she was inspired to try her hand at button mosaics. She decided to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the Golden Gate Bridge with a 48x36-inch creation. The project took her eight months (averaging seven hours a day) and 4,587 buttons. The piece is now displayed in the home's lobby. Peg, meanwhile, is pondering her next button project. Civil War exhibit open at Bethel Historical Society

By TERRY KARKOS,
Sun Media Wire; Citizen staff

The Bethel Historical Society this week opened an exhibit titled "In the Field & On the Homefront: Bethel During the Civil War." The exhibit is the society's contribution to the "Maine Civil War Trail" project, a statewide effort commemorating the 150th anniversary of The War Between the States. The project showcases Civil War-related displays at 23 sites, from Bangor to Kennebunk and from Kingfield to Bethel, Bridgton and Livermore.

Among the artifacts on view at Bethel are a long, double-bladed metal saw with a wooden handle and a mangled bullet. Randy Bennett, the society's executive director, said the dreaded surgeons' bone saw has one fine blade for cutting flesh and a rougher saw-toothed blade for cutting bone. The bullet, he said, was taken from the hip of Daniel Martin Stearns of Bethel 20 years after he was wounded in 1862 at Antietam. Other artifacts include Civil War handcuffs, documents, photographs and the dress uniform of Clark S. Edwards from Bethel, who reached the rank of Brigadier General during the war.

Bennett said the society has a free 20-page, full-color guide to the Maine Civil War Trail. "The Trail represents a worthwhile series of exhibits for any-

Newry makes deal on Bilinsky abatement

By ALISON ALOISIO

Newry selectmen and Sophia Bilinsky have reached a tentative settlement in their four-year battle over the assessment on her Powder Ridge home.

As a result, the town will likely refund her $13,400 in taxes paid for 2011 and 2012, according to town officials.

Her 2012 tax bill was $25,527.

Town officials said Newry's legal costs related to the case totaled about $8,000 for 2012, and so far this year $3,096.

In 2009 the town assessed the 2007 home at $2.8 million. Bilinsky, however, claimed the home is worth only $1.7 million, and has appealed the assessment every year since then. Her requests for an abatement have been denied by the town, and those appealed to the Oxford County Board of Assessment Review and the Oxford County Superior Court have also been denied.

The town and Bilinsky have differed on issues including the availability of information on construction costs of the home, square footage, depreciation and the grade (quality

Some dissatisfied with Newry's school share

By ALISON ALOISIO

Newry selectmen and two residents last week discussed whether anything could be done to lower the town's share of the SAD 44 budget.

Newry, which has about 30 students, is slated to pay nearly $2.8 million toward the school budget, slightly more than Bethel pays.

The current Newry mill rate is 9.1.

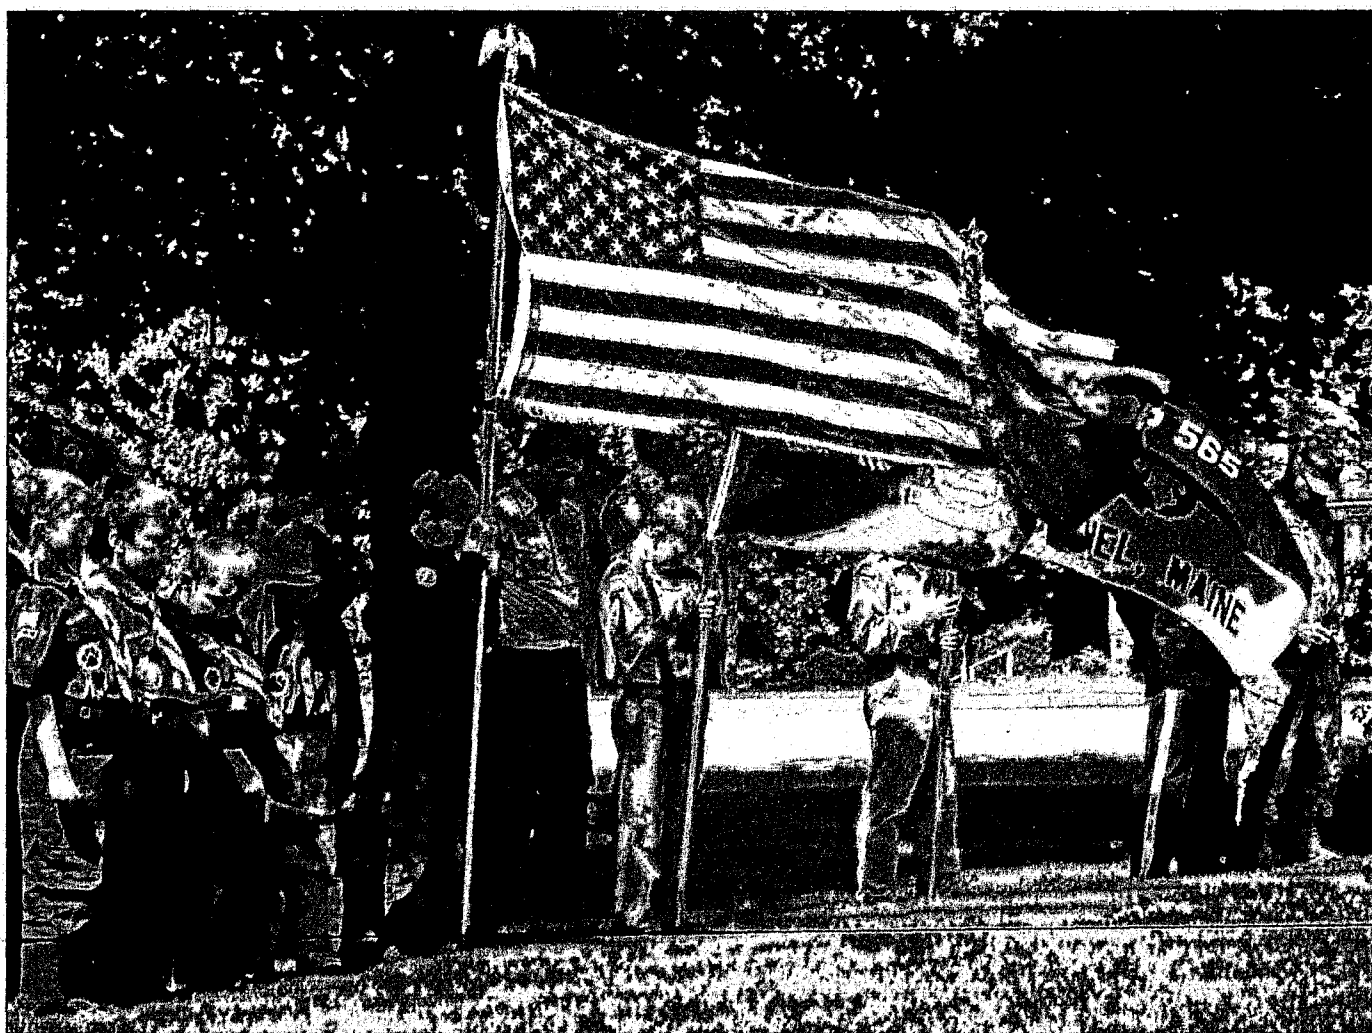

Doug Webster asked selectmen if there was a way of "looking into getting more bang for our buck for our students, with that rating [the recent state grading of Maine schools] and what we're paying to educate our kids, it seems to be way out of line."

Webster wondered if Newry could negotiate with the state to "get out of the current system that us and one other town [Frye Island] have. 'It's grossly unfair,'" said Webster. "I'm surprised nobody has come to the town wanting to get out of the district."

(Webster was referring to a 2005 change in the school funding law that for most of Maine added a student population component to the calculation of a town's share of a district budget. But the state Legislature exempted SAD 44 and SAD 6, allowing them

GOV. LEPAGE

To the Editor:

Our bull-headed governor thought it necessary to hide art work that depicted the struggle and triumphs of many working class and child laborers during the Industrial Revolution and the women workers in WWII. However, he is fine with a flashing TV screen in the State House Hall of Flags. Messages on the screen taunt Democrats in an attempt to force them to abandon thousands of uninsured people in Maine by refusing help from the Federal Government.

A large TV screen resembles a billboard. Remember this?

"I think that I shall never see – A bill board as lovely as a tree

In fact unless the billboards fall – I'll never see a tree at all."

Voters got rid of billboards several years ago; they were ugly.

In the May 24 edition of the Sun Journal, the editorial includes this:

"Part of the problem is that the governor and the Republican legislative press office have defined health care as welfare.

Mainers who are not able to afford medical care should just quit being lazy, get off their butts and earn more money.

The price of their "failure" could be steep, but the Republicans seem willing to accept that uninsured Mainers could die of an undiagnosed cancer or be bankrupted by an extended illness.

We suspect Gov. LePage is beyond his rational argument stage, if he ever had one on this issue.

The man doesn't compromise, doesn't back up, doesn't back down, doesn't change course, is immune to new information, contemptuous of contrary views and comfortable with chaos and bitterness."

I find that an excellent description of the man we are stuck with as governor.

SUPPORT THE DOG PARK

To the Editor:

Here are facts pertaining to the Bethel Dog Park. Our committee has worked faithfully bi-monthly on it. We resolved the issue of us making a new snowmobilers' path.

Over a month ago, out of nowhere, suddenly people want to pull the rug out from under us to use the land we worked hard for for a basketball court. They want our cake and eat it too. They could build next to the approved Dog Park site. Everyone could be happy that way.

Having the Bethel Dog Park would bring in more tourists, and surely attract dog lovers to settle in homes in Bethel. Our real-estate economy could thrive again.

For Bethel, the proof of the pudding is the success of several local dog-related businesses. They opened in the last three years. Dogs these days have become important members of families. People go without so that their dog is properly taken care of. If I ever moved, having a dog park nearby would be a top priority.

Dogs need one another in a fenced-in, safe environment which is perfect for them, the dog parents and for everybody to see. Dog parks provide hoots and hollers watching their canine antics.

The Bethel Dog Park is self-supporting. It would not cost the taxpayers anything. We've been unable to go after grants and donations for a year without a permanent place to build it. We've been offered free labor to build it as well as playground chips.

Please do not believe the negative petition against the Bethel Dog Park. It isn't so. There is enough dry land after our land to create a basketball court. It needn't be an either/or issue. Please join us. Please ignore the negative petition which must go as is on the June agenda. Please consider voting pro-dog park. Here are some dog park facts:

Boston Common, the oldest park in the nation, will soon have a dog park.

Portland, Oregon, is opening its thirty-third off-leash area.

Even the little island of Maui opened its first dog park this year.

Norway, Maine, has plans to open an animal shelter and a dog park when they've raised enough money through donations.

I understand that a basketball court seems like mother's milk and homemade apple pie. However, the one reason for voting down our site is MONEY!

Why must Bethel citizens have to waste fuel to travel far and wide to the nearest dog park when we can bring in plenty of business by having one here?

AFRAID OF FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

To the Editor:

For the first time in my 70-plus years, I am afraid of our Federal Government. The Obama administration has failed to take responsibility for the disaster in Benghazi, where four Americans died because of inadequate security for our embassy staff. Attorney General Holder failed to take responsibility for the failed Fast and Furious gun running disaster which resulted in one American border patrol agent and countless Mexican citizens being killed by American guns. The Internal Revenue Service admits to illegally targeting and intimidating American citizens because they belonged to legal organizations which opposed Obama administration policies. Now the Holder Justice Department has been caught illegally confiscating telephone and e-mail records of Associated Press and Fox News reporters accused, but not proven guilty of any illegal activities related to investigating Obama administration actions or policies.

The real kicker is that the Obama administration took the brazen, in your face, step of appointing Sarah Hall Ingram (formerly in charge of the IRS agency that was illegally intimidating conservative groups) to the IRS agency in charge of determining whose health insurance policies conform to the Affordable Care Act (Obamacare) requirements. That is putting the fox into the henhouse!

Watch out! You or I may be the next ones to receive "special scrutiny" by one or more government agency!

CEMETERY STONE DAMAGE

To the Editor:

I am a World War II army veteran, born in Bethel in 1926. On the afternoon of Sunday, May 26, I traveled to the Riverside Cemetery in Bethel. My trip was to "decorate" the graves of my great-grandparents, Albion and Jenny Herrick.

Imagine my dismay and anger when I discovered that the large family stone had been tipped over, either by accident or by vandalism.

My great-grandfather, Albion, had been a partner in Herrick Brothers Machine Shop, adjacent to the railroad tracks in the early 1900s. With my parents, I had visited that machine shop business in about 1931 or 1932, and we had stayed overnight with my great-grandparents in their large home on Vernon Street across from the funeral home.

I have contacted the Sheriff's deputy to report the incident. I also contacted the cemetery's superintendent. He assured me that the stone will soon be restored to its original position.

'Making trails'

One man often spent the winter in jail, convicted of cheating at horse trading. On his return in the spring, he visited the neighbors. He sat on their porches and held court like a king and in precise, cultivated English told of how he never hired a lawyer but always pleaded his own case at court, thus went free in the warm weather, to the comfortable jail in winter. He told about not liking the food and demanding special dishes required by his diet.

Another man, from the oak that grew plentifully on the mountain, had a business making ship's knees which were taken to Portland by ox team. He worked his four sons so hard that when they grew to manhood they had revenge. Once they tied him to a buckboard with the shaves taken off, gave a great push and sent him down the road. Another time they nailed him in a barrel and rolled him down the ledges on the east side of the mountain.

One man from another family lived in penury all his days, worked out, saved all his money, accumulated a big sum for those days and lent it out at interest. He even went without stockings in the winter time. After he died, a younger brother spent it all in one glorious three-month's fling. Another brother disappeared; no one knew what became of him. One story was that he was responsible for poisoning cattle in a neighboring town and that he was murdered. His neighbors insisted to a man that he would not have done such a thing; they knew that honor was not limited to those who lived conventionally. No one ever made a search to find him. Another brother was a brawny fighter. His honor concerning a young lady was questioned at a neighborhood party. He invited his disparager to step outside. They fought. His rival was successful and got the girl later, but carried scars to his grave from the pounding that he received that night. The sisters were gentlewomen, and sang like angels. My mother remembers walking home from school, hearing their voices floating down the mountainside singing "The Kerry Dance," as effortlessly as birds and with the power of a Brunhilde.

None of these folks had ordinary given names like John or James, or Susan or Mary. One family had Clarence DeMott, Ellis DeMinor, Ora DeWitt, Asa Cuvier, Newell Banister, Rose Jenella, Victoria Belle. To each household at some time would come city relatives, dressed in fine clothing and plumed hats, traveling in a splendid carriage drawn by a spanking team of smart drivers. Their visits were short. The neighbors were polite, hesitated to make a call that could be considered one of curiosity. So the strangers were usually off and away, still a mystery, bearing with them one of the off-spring to a more ordered and less flamboyant way of life. B.B. recognized all the surnames....Winslow, Osgood, Cotton, Annis, Stanley...from seeing portraits in museums or from reading about them in history books. He was fascinated by these stories. The folk who settled on the Intervale land near the river came at a later date. They were Protestant ethic folk, not here for adventure or for privacy, but for what the land would produce sober, industrious people with none of the individualism of the hilltoppers. The Tory families followed the tradition of the culture from which they sprang. The first son was for the church, Lawson; the second son for medicine, Galen; the third son for the law and public service, Timothy Jarvis, a fine rolling name for a barrister and a congressman. The following children had more freedom of choice. In fact they could even go to the city and make a bit of money, usually needed to keep the home place going and to help their half brothers and sisters, from the often second wife, get a start in life.

The mountain is no longer a completely unknown place to us. As we added new trails, about one a year, its contours became somewhat familiar. On the northern end of the west side are three distinct ridges, separated by gently rolling slopes. Each ridge has a fairly steep cliff. At the foot of the middle one is a tiny freshwater pond. We have one trail over the middle height of land that takes us north from here all the way to the road coming down from Swan Hill. Branching from this trail are six side trails; Capen Hill; Farwell Mountain road; the Osgood road; the Stevens trail; the Middle Intervale link. The sixth is the Cathedral trail, down over the conifer-covered sharp ridge with deep gullies each side. It is carpeted with pine needles, very steep and slippery, not to be taken in wet weather or with an amateur. Everything about this trail is exhilarating; finding it, clearing it, riding over it. Not far from the Swan Hill road we had found two enormous maples which could be nothing but dooryard trees. Digging about under the brush, we found the traces of a cellar hole. Not far from here would be another place shown on our old atlas. We find the traces of a stone wall and follow it and soon come into an almost open clearing, a large section covered with scrawny gray birch, sure sign of once sandy pastureland. We discover the foundations of what must have been a very large house, and two large barns. Then we find two stone walls about thirty feet apart running back towards the Swan Hill road. There are no tall trees at all between the walls, only small newish growth. This must have been a palatial driveway. (I questioned people and hunted for three years afterward to find a picture of this place with no success. It obviously was much larger than the usual Cape Cod house common on the mountain.) After thoroughly exploring this section, we went through some tall pines; no underbrush and no young trees growing proved it once had been open land.

to keep their budget shares based entirely on property valuations. Had that provision not been included, Newry's share could have fallen drastically while that of the other four SAD 44 towns could have jumped by double digit percentages. Leading up to the Legislature's decision, Supt. Dave Murphy pled SAD 44's case to a Legislature committee and to then-Rep. Arlan Jodrey and Sen. Bruce Bryant.)

Town Administrator Loretta Powers said that when residents have complained to her in the past about the school costs, "My comment back was the school budget has never not passed in the town of Newry, which amazes me after all the people who complain about it," she said. "It always passes by a pretty decent margin."

Pursuing a change, she said, would be "up to the townspeople. It's been thrown around a lot." Selectman Brooks Morton said it would take a citizens' initiative.

Rob James was also dissatisfied with Newry's share of the school budget.

"It seems if we pay a large enough portion it allows the other towns to just kind of coast," he said. "If they paid what it really costs, they might be more interested in what goes on down at the school."

He said Newry is subsidizing the budget.

James also said he was offended when Woodstock and Greenwood in the past discussed the possibility of doing Tax Increment Financing (TIF) with development projects.

One proposed Greenwood project would have allowed that any increased property value associated with the project not be counted against the town's valuation for purposes of calculating its share of the district school budget, nor for calculating the amount of state revenue sharing the town received. The town could then have contributed part of the funds from those two benefits back to the developer responsible for the improvements, in order to offset the increased taxes the developer would be paying on the upgraded property.

James said the towns were trying to keep the TIF funds in town while Newry is "paying way more than anybody else in the state."

Webster said he was not necessarily advocating that Newry simply look at withdrawing from SAD 44. But, he said, perhaps the argument could be made that the town might leave the district "unless we get a fair shake" financially. Selectboard Chair Wendy Hanscom said changing the formula would take legislation.

Looking back at when the Legislature exempted SAD 44 from the law change, Hanscom said, "When it first got passed there wasn't a lot of discussion about it. It just seemed to get handed to us. There was no input from Newry on the change, as far as we know, it would have been nice if we'd been offered a phase-in, even if it was over 20 years."

The selectmen's discussion concluded with no action recommended.

Contacted Monday, Murphy said the possible change in the funding formula by the Legislature, and the subsequent proposed exemption for SAD 44, were discussed at the School Board level over a span of several meetings from late 2004 to early 2005 before they became law.

Appeal

of finish).

In December Superior Court Judge Robert W. Clifford upheld OCBAR's denial of the 2010 abatement appeal. But he also left the door open to the possibility that the board could have found the assessment wrong, prompting uncertainty on the part of the selectmen about the strength of their case in future appeals.

Earlier this month the 2011 abatement appeal went before the county board. According to selectmen, the board did not rule but instead asked the town to bring in an independent appraiser/assessor to evaluate the property.

That prompted a meeting last week between selectmen and Bilinsky's lawyers, Jarrod Crockett of Bethel and Robert Crawford of Bernstein Shur of Portland. Newry's assessing agent, Bob Gingras, also attended.

Crawford noted the county board's request was unusual, and Crockett said that three of the four board members wanted a new evaluation to focus on the home's grade, which was assigned at 2.25, the highest in Newry.

Crawford suggested a plan to find and fund an independent appraiser "that you get to choose and we get to pay for it," he said.

Gingras, however, was skeptical the town would be able to find an appraiser/assessor willing to do the job.

Selectman Brooks Morton thought selectmen should reconsider the 2011 assessment and find a compromise.

"I believe it's time we find a resolution to this so that all of us can stop spending money fighting about it."

Gingras said he stood by his assessment, but he would do what selectmen directed.

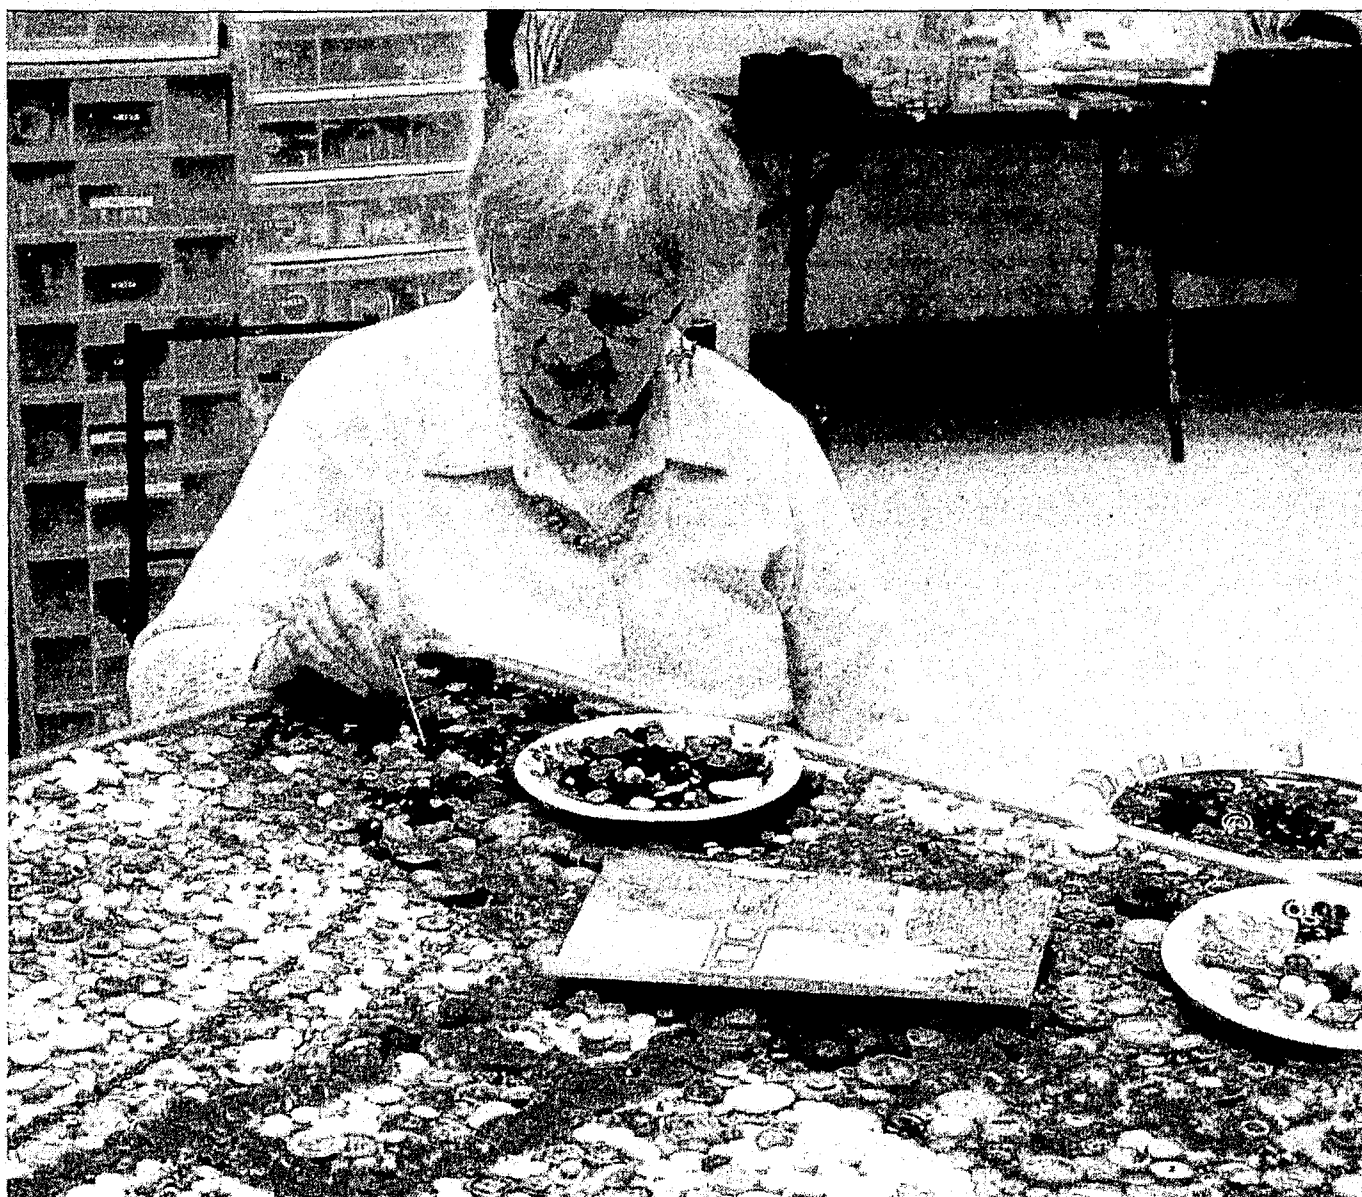

The group met again on Wednesday for more than an hour.

According to selectboard Chair Wendy Hanscom, after much discussion of options, the board voted to adjust the grade down to 1.95 for 2011 and beyond until the next town revaluation, as long as the owners agree not to challenge the assessment until the next revaluation, and submit a letter to OCBAR to withdraw their 2011 and 2012 appeal.

Hanscom said Bilinsky's representatives later asked that the same offer apply to any new construction on the property, and the board agreed.

When the agreement is finalized, Newry is expected to write Bilinsky a check for $13,400, the adjusted amount of the abatement for 2011 and 2012.

Said Hanscom, "I do not believe that the town's assessment of the property is inaccurate. However, though we have won two previous appeals, I do believe there is value in settling the matter until the next reval and using the town's resources for something else."

By DON BENNETT

Lucky Stiff, a musical farce, hilariously entertained the audience at Bingham Auditorium last Thursday. The plot involved a six million dollars inheritance from Uncle Anthony but with the condition that if Uncle Anthony doesn't get a trip to Monte Carlo the money goes to the Universal Dog Home of Brooklyn. We think Uncle Anthony is accidentally shot and for the rest of the show rides in a wheel chair supposedly still alive. A number of students who had lead parts in last year's "Sound of Music" starred in "Lucky Stiff." The highlight of the show was a telephone call between Vinnie, played by Zee Krstic, last year's Good Old Max, and his never-seen wife, Mary Alice. Reed Thurston played the dead man who was supposed to be alive and made nearly every scene sprawled in his wheelchair.

Of the spring student productions in the last few years, this was the first farce we have seen on stage - very entertaining and very professional. Faye Taylor Memorial Art Show

The Faye Taylor Memorial Art Show

The Bethel Historical Society held its 34th Faye Taylor Memorial Art Show last Saturday. Jordan Berry, who won first place as a second grader last year, repeated this year by winning first place in the division of grades 3 and 4. Payton Berry followed her with a second-place showing in the Division 1 (Grades 1 and 2). Congratulations Berrys!

The theme this year was "The Old, Historic House" - the Moses Mason House. Division 1 winners were Nyla Scott, first grade, Woodstock; Payton Berry, second grade, CPS; and Matthew Bean, first grade, Woodstock.

Division 2 winners were Jordan Berry, third grade, CPS; Juliann Francis, fourth grade, CPS; and Orion Fournier, fourth grade, CPS.

Division 3 winners were Caroline Newell, fifth grade, CPS; Ella Blair, fifth grade, CPS; and Chaia Alford, fifth grade, CPS.

Special mention has to go to a third grader with a fine sense of humor; the art work was a boy glancing to his left but wearing the Moses Mason House commemorative medal. Out of all the entries in the show this one was the most eye-catching.

Caroline Newell, a fifth grader who placed first in her division, had a drawing of a girl holding up an open tour brochure with a picture of the building she was looking at just beyond her. Ella Blair, who placed second, exhibited a really fine piece - the old house done in oil pastels.

The "court of judges" welcomed Cailin Kavanaugh into its membership this year, along with regulars Gemma and Dennis Dreyer and Don Bennett. Memorial Day Observance Peter Mills was the guest speaker for Bethel's Memorial Day ceremonies. From what I could gather from the Internet, Mr. Mills lives in Cornville, Maine, in Somerset County, north of Skowhegan. In March, 2011, he was appointed by Governor LePage to be Executive Director of the Maine Turnpike Authority. Mr. Mills is a Republican. He served five years in the Navy during Vietnam. He served 16 years in the Maine Legislature and ran for governor twice, unsuccessfully. He is 70 years old.

Mr. Mills spoke on the general topic of democratic debate in national decisions to go to war versus the way dictators such as Hitler and Stalin drove their respective countries to war. His speech was gratifyingly brief and very well delivered. He had marched in the parade up Main Street.

The crowd at this year's observance was thankful for the sunshine after nearly a week of rain. The Mahoosuc Community Band performed admirably, recognizing the different branches of our armed forces by playing their service anthems.

The History Club Wiped Out

On May 14, 1936, my grandparents lost their entire Mayville homestead to fire. In all, eight people were homeless at the end of the day. The place was about 100 years old; all bottles, cans and equipment used in the milk business were lost as well as two pigs, a bull and a horse in the barn were lost. All the dairy cows were outside - saved. The family had lived there since 1914. All household furnishings were saved with little damage.

Luckily, only two houses away, the house and barn of recently deceased dairy farmer Alonzo Chapman and his wife Emily were available. When Alonzo and Emily Sidelinger married in 1913, "Lon" bought the Mayville farm from James Bartlett, renovated the old house and the next year replaced the old barn with a modern dairy barn. In 1924 after the old house burned, the Chapmans had a "beautiful new residence erected near the site."

Alonzo Chapman had "kept a fine herd of purebred cattle and conducted a milk route in the village." Mr. Chapman had been born in Bethel on January 22, 1878 the son of William Ladd and Sarah Frost Chapman. (The Ladds lived on the farm where more recently Jim and Pat Hudson lived.) Before the Hudsons, the Chapmans' daughter ran an antique shop there. Often riding by her sign I learned early on how to spell "antique." One day, my fifth-grade teacher asked if anyone knew how to spell "antique" - I was the only one in my class to know it, and maybe the only one to know what "antiques" were.

References: Oxford County Bethel Citizen, May 21, 1936, and Alonzo Chapman obituary Citizen November 13, 1934.

Alonzo Chapman was at Gould Academy in 1894. After finishing Gould he went to Montana where he worked on the sheep ranch of Daniel S. Hastings. Later he returned and was employed by the Brown Company both in the woods and in the office at Berlin.

Pouring rain and cold temperatures didn't stop the Bethel Farmers' Market from opening for the season on Saturday, May 25. Some of my favorite vendors were there, including Abbott's Family Farm, Meadow Ridge Perennial Farm, Maine Lobster Boys, Middle Intervale Farm, and Vegetables Dance. A newcomer this season is Angry Mountain Farm from Albany, who offered fresh-baked goods, including pretzel rolls, bread, and bagels. Their rosemary and garlic flatbreads (crisp and sprinkled with a touch of sea salt) won rave reviews from my book discussion group at our Saturday brunch. Other finds: delicate baby spinach, parsnips, and rhubarb. The Bethel Farmers' Market is every Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the green near the Norway Savings Bank at Route 2 and the Parkway.

The Annual Bethel Library Plant Sale is this Saturday, June 1, from 9 to 10 a.m. The sale takes place rain or shine on the lawn beside the library at 5 Broad Street. It's one of the best places in the area to get inexpensive perennials. This year special gardener's "door prizes" will be given away from 9:15 to 9:30 a.m. All the funds raised go to help the library provide books, movies, magazines, programs, and other services to our community, along with maintaining the library building. If you can't come to the plant sale, you can still make a contribution to the library by donating to the library's Annual Giving Campaign. This year, the library's goal is to raise $13,000 by June 30. They are still short of that goal. Donations to the library's annual fund can be sent to: Bethel Library, P.O. Box 130 Bethel, ME. 04217.

I was honored this week to have my short story, "Hay Day," selected for publication later this year in the book "Summer Stories." This was the result of a short story competition sponsored by the Maine Writers & Publishers Alliance and Shanti Arts Publishing. Mainers were invited to write short stories inspired by a series of paintings by Leslie Anderson. Her paintings depicted scenes of summer life in Maine. Writers submitted fifty-four short stories. Award-winning Maine author, Ron Currie, Jr., selected twelve stories by ten authors to be published alongside Anderson's paintings.

OCSD Patrol Log

Monday, May 20

At 9:02 a.m. a caller reported walking on Route 5 in Albany the day before and having a subject in a vehicle stop and ask if she wanted a ride because it was cold. She reported it as suspicious because 'no one is that kind anymore.'

At 5:09 p.m. a caller on the Bear River Road in Newry reported jewelry missing. Deputies Willie Nelson and Mike Dailey responded, and located footprints outside and a fingerprint inside.

Tuesday, May 21

At 1:58 p.m. Deputy Mike Halacy responded to Hanover for a harassment complaint. A harassment notice was completed.

At 5:17 p.m. Deputy Sullivan Rizzo responded to the Mayville Road for a report of a gas driveoff.

Thursday, May 23

At 2:38 p.m. Lewiston Police requested officers in Bethel be on the lookout for a vehicle involved in a hit-and-run in their city. Deputy Dani Welch was assigned.

At 3:22 p.m. a subject on Route 232 in Bethel reported harassment by a subject in Norway. Deputy Matt Noyes was assigned, but a statement on the incident was not returned.

At 3:48 p.m. a Mayville Road businessman reported that a subject had threatened him if his trucks didn't slow down on the road. The complainant just wanted the incident on file.

At 9:40 p.m. on Route 5 in Andover a subject in a vehicle struck a moose. There were no injuries but there was extensive damage to the vehicle. Deputy Nathan Bowie responded.

Saturday, May 25

At 3:45 a.m. a report was received that a railroad crossing gate on Mechanic Street in Bethel had been knocked over by a vehicle. Deputy Chris Davis responded.

At 5:16 p.m. Deputy Peter Casey responded to Vernon Street to check on the welfare of a goat. The deputy reported his observations to the animal control officer.

At 6:49 p.m. in Gilead Deputies Dani Welch, Peter Casey and Nathan Bowie responded for two subjects having a dispute. They were warned to stay away from each other.

At 9:57 p.m. in Albany Deputy Matt Noyes arrested Wesley Hewey for a violation of bail.

Monday, May 27

At 9:58 a.m. a subject on Route 2 in Bethel reported a road rage incident. Deputy Mike Halacy was assigned.

At 2:55 p.m. Deputy Sullivan Rizzo responded to Mason Street for a domestic problem.

At 5:01 p.m. Deputy Sullivan Rizzo responded to Main Street in Bethel for a report of a subject threatening a store clerk.

PET OF THE WEEK:

Meet Annabelle

Meet Annabelle. This petite, senior lady was surrendered to another shelter because her owners could no longer care for her. When we were alerted that she was scheduled to be euthanized, we immediately brought her into our care and she is now a favorite at the shelter.

Don't let her age fool you. Annabelle has plenty of get-up-and-go left in her. She is easy to get along with and makes herself right at home wherever she goes.

She loves to go for long walks and especially likes to be with people. She would love to be in a family who will love and stand by her in her senior years. In return, she will give you her unconditional love and loyalty.

Do you have room in your heart for this special girl?

I was happy to see the sun come out in time for the Memorial Day Parades. Hopefully we get to enjoy the sunshine for a while now. The rain sure had gotten to be too much. I heard that some folks will have to replant what they had already planted in their gardens.

I want to apologize to the residents of Pittsburg, N.H., for my spelling error last week. Just to show, one cannot rely on "spell-check."

In regard to Neil landing his helicopter, John says that he is waiting to get EFA. I hope Neil can help John out.

This is all the news I have this week. Please, call me at 824-3220 or e-mail han@meaglink.net with your news. I always enjoy hearing from the readers near and far.

Have a great week.

Locke's Mills

By BETSEY FOSTER

Before we can move forward on our new town office beside the Legion Hall, we have to draw up a contract with the Jackson-Silver Legion. The Selectmen met with the Legion officers Tuesday (too late for this column) to begin going over an agreement. More to come.

Nick Bartlett, co-owner of The Local Hub, met with the Greenwood Planning Board recently to discuss opening a farmer's market in Locke's Mills. The approval for this would need to come through the State, and our CEO is working with him on that.

Gen Morio returned to talk with the Planning Board about his proposed gun and ammunition store (Sports & Plus). He is awaiting an authorization letter from the Maine

Department of Transportation and will be ready to proceed when that is received.

Greenwood will be saving some money on mileage this year. Previously, we have paid mileage reimbursement to our code enforcement officer. Recently, our CEO, Joelle Corey-Whitman, purchased a used truck ($2,500) for site visits. Since she works primarily as CEO for Norway, they paid for the bulk of the truck price. Greenwood paid $500 toward the cost. This means we no longer have to pay mileage. At the federal mileage reimbursement rate of 50 cents per mile, the $500 invested in the truck will pay itself back quickly. The highway department in Norway is handling any repairs for the vehicle.

Do you know what and where Shadagee is? If not, come to the Greenwood Historical Society meeting Wednesday, June 5, at 7 p.m. Blaine Mills will present a program on this area of Greenwood at the Main Street (across from Saunders Mill). Everyone is welcome.

In case you are wondering how much rain we received in those three days last week, the official National Weather Service reported 3.84 inches fell in the Bethel area between May 24 and 26. That was one of the highest amounts in Maine.

A black bear made his way over Knoll Road on Memorial Day morning. He marched down the road as if he was leading a parade. My young dog cheered him on with great barking.

Ducklings are hatching. The first ones hatched a week ago - nine little mallards or black ducklings. They hatched along the swamp side of the Round Pond causeway. As Mom swam them out from the shore away from my dog and me, the Canada geese with their gosling, as well as a female hooded merganser swam out to take a look at the new ducklings. They seemed only curious and not threatening. Checking out the new arrivals.

FISHING FESTIVAL THIS SATURDAY-This year's Family Fishing Festival in Bethel will take place June 1 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Angevine Park on the North Road (rain or shine). Here, from last year's event, Samantha Miller, fifth-grader at Crescent Park School shows off her prize

The last of the spring tonics is in season. Rhubarb is here. Many folks grow their own, but there are a few of us who have been known to raid the rhubarb patches at long-abandoned falling down farmhouses. If worse comes to worse, you can always buy some to make sauce and pies. Asparagus is also in season - by that, I mean the local crop not that grown hundreds of miles away. Some of the very best I've ever eaten comes from Woodstock Asparagus. It is tender and sweet with no bitterness. It is sold at The Local Hub here in town and should be available for another three or four weeks.

The dragonflies and damselflies are out now. Glad of that as they eat many mosquitoes and blackflies. Dragon and damselflies belong to the same order but are somewhat different. Simply put, dragonflies are bigger and more robust. Damselflies are daintier.

These beautiful insects hatch as vicious-looking nymphs that spend their life in the shallows of quiet water. There, they prey on anything edible even other dragonfly nymphs. The nymph stage can last as long as four years. When that stage is completed, the nymph crawls out of the water onto a blade of pond grass, sheds its skin, and a dragonfly emerges. From that point on, the dragonfly consumes insects by the thousands each day. The dragonfly lives about two months during which time it mates and lays its eggs so the cycle can begin again. While these interesting creatures do a lot of good, they are considered a pest by beekeepers because dragonflies can eat many bees from the hive. Save the bees. Eat mosquitoes and blackflies.

Upton

By JOE BERNIER

The Letter B Notch Riders will have their June meeting at the ATV Park and Ride located at the Route 26 end of North Road in Grafton. The meeting will begin at 9 a.m. After the meeting, the members will conduct a trash and debris cleanup along their trail system.

The Upton Planning Board will meet Friday, May 31, 6:30 p.m. at the Upton Town Office.

The Upton Town Meeting is scheduled for Thursday, June 27, 7 p.m. at the school building.

There was about a quarter of an inch of fresh snow on the vehicles and lawn Sunday morning. It seems a little late in the year for that.

Not long after The Citizen came out last week, Mary Davis called. She very politely asked Penny whether I was losing my hearing, or if I sometimes over-imbibed. Penny answered yes - both. It seems that I heard wrong. Vernon saw a huge BEAR, not a BOA. I apologize for the misinformation. I hope that I did not cause any serious panic. The waters of Umbagog Lake are safe from boas. Swim on.

Please call 533-2010 or e-mail backstjoe@gmail.com with your news.

Gilead

By LIN CHAPMAN

The cold weather came back for Memorial Day weekend. I actually saw a car coming from New Hampshire on Route 2 that had snow on the roof.

My brother, Steve McLain, stopped by the house and we were checking out some display items to go into the train station at some later date. He came up with a large item for outdoor display and then we found a switch lock and some keys for smaller inside displays.

Hugh and I went to the St. Never's Day Sale at the Bethel Historical Society.

We found a few interesting items that we just could not live without.

Town Office

The Gilead Town Office will be closed on Tuesday, June 4. We are sorry for the inconvenience, but both the Tax Collector and Town Clerk have previous commitments on that date.

Gilead Historical Society Norm Buttrick stopped by last Saturday for a cup of coffee and a short visit. Then on Sunday, Bob and Judy Bishop were at the house and caught up on things. We also got a note from Bob and Joanne Stewart. They wanted to let us know that they plan on attending Friends and Family Day in June.

Friends and Family Day will be held on Saturday, June 22 this year. The historic buildings will be open and displays will be available for viewing. The main event of the day will be the Public Crock-Pot Potluck Lunch at the Town Hall. Serving will begin at 11 a.m., and it is on a first come, first serve basis. There will be a selection of cold and hot main dishes to choose from and a variety of desserts. The cost is $7 for adults, $3 for children 5 to 12 years old, and those under 5 years old are free.

This is a fundraiser for the GHS and there will also be the sale table with books that have been published and other Gilead related items. The 2014 Commemorative Wall Calendar will be available for sale at a bargain price of $5. In 2014, the GHS will celebrate its 10th anniversary. The GHS was formed after the Bicentennial in 2004 and is still going strong.

Hugh "Cubby" Swan will be the guest speaker at 1 p.m. He is from Locke's Mills and has done research on hobos, especially the famous hobo, Leon Ray Livingston, aka A-No.1. This should be interesting since hobos traveled through this area and left their marks on buildings, etc. There are some marks carved into the railroad station that resemble the ones that were used by these travelers.

Andover

By JANE RICH

At the annual Andover Alumni Banquet on Saturday evening, the following students in grades 6 through 12 received the Walter Fox Book Awards: Sonya Farrington, Jeffrey Stetson, Taylor Merrill, Dharma Damon, Michael Cintron, Katherine Mills and Harley Wheeler. The Alumni Association's Award for Math went to Autumn Berry. The Science Award went to Joshua Rainey. Two students received the East Andover Community Club Scholarship and they were Gabrielle Conrad and Harley Wheeler. Kelsey Averill was the recipient of scholarship awards including the Lila Farrington Scholarship, the Andover Service Circle Scholarship, the Michael Marston Award, and the Sweatt Family Memorial Scholarship which was awarded by the Andover Educational Fund. The Andover Ed Fund awarded two other scholarships. The Anna Thurston Scholarship went to Gabrielle Conrad, and Joshua Rainey received the John and Eunice Fox Scholarship. The speaker was Roger Mills III representing the Class of 1967. Eda Perkins celebrated 74 years of high school graduation which took place in 1939, while the Class of 1953 celebrated 60 years. The 50-year class this year was the Class of 1963 and they were honored in the grand march at the beginning of the celebration.

Members of the community gathered on the Common at 9 a.m. Monday, to honor our veterans. There were 18 veterans present. Wreaths were laid on the monuments and a flag-folding ceremony was conducted using a flag in memory of Rufus Rich donated to the Knights of Pythias for future use by yours truly. The Robinsons sang "God Bless America." The knights then hosted a time of fellowship in the Town Hall with coffee and donuts made by Dave White. Each year the Knight of Pythias Lodge undertakes the planning and execution of this ceremony as a service to the community. Thanks to Freeman Farrington, for organizing such an event; to the veterans who participated; and Pastors Ken Wagstaff and Jane Rich. From a personal perspective, it was the first bug-free Memorial Day I can ever remember thanks to the cold and the wind.

Vacation Bible School is something most of us participated in during our formative years and this year, local children will have two opportunities to participate in such an event. Calvary Bible Church will have an adventure entitled "Kingdom Chronicles" July 8 through 12 from 6 to 8 p.m. each evening.

The First Congregational Church VBS will be held July 22, 23, and 24 from 9 a.m. until noon, and will be entitled "The Voice from The Mountain." Further information about these events can be had by contacting the pastors.

Hanover

By CLEM WORCESTER

The rain fell everywhere. Rain fell on lawns making for a very lush crop of grass. Some folks couldn't stand it and mowed lawns in the rain. Rain also fell on roofs and into roofs, some of which had not leaked before. Dirt roads were beginning to dry out, but the rain turned them to mud again. The rainstorm cooled off and wet down the Memorial Holiday weekend.

Clarke L. Reiner is receiving congratulations for graduating from the University of Vermont. He graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Communications. Clarke Lamson Reiner is the son of Lucille Lamson Reiner and Dr. Robert Reiner, seasonally of Howard Pond Road. This summer, Clarke plans on volunteering with Bethel Rescue and he has been accepted at Champlain College of Graduate Studies for a Master of Science in Health Care Administration.

Something new is about to begin. Soon, newspapers will be available to purchase in the parking area between Gardner Roberts Memorial Library and the Hanover Town Office. The Sun Journal, The Bethel Citizen and Rumford Falls Times will be dispensed. This will be a service of the Sun Journal.

While Bob Brown remains a patient at Rumford Hospital, special guardians are caring for Sam IV.

The Hanover Select Board met May 22. The Board officially accepted the resignation of Dan Force as the RSU 10 director from Hanover. They expressed the Town's appreciation for his service. The Board listened to the plans of Eagle Scout nominee Keith Harrington to do an upgrade of town property.

During June, the Select Board plans to walk the South Shore Road with land owners, residents, contractors, and engineers to learn more about winter maintenance on that road. The group will be looking at ditches, culverts, trees, and road width, plus the road surface.

Remember to check yourself often for ticks and tick bites which can cause long-lasting effects to adults and especially to children.

What a beautiful morning after this long, rainy week. Sure was nice to wake up to see the sun.

Wednesday night, I had dinner with Doug, Jen and Bella.

Friday night, I picked up my grandson, Marcus, in Norway and we had a grand time doing some shopping and playing scrabble. After breakfast at Melby's, I took him back, as he had to work on Saturday.

Sunday morning, I was up bright and early and made two rhubarb and strawberry custard pies for a large cookout at Hillcrest Farm. Those attending were Chris and Elton Cole; Peter and Kathy Cotter, of Cape Elizabeth; Megan and Patrick Cotter; Kayla Cole, Maire and Eben Katlin, Devin and Cole, Doug and Jen Bennett and Bella, Jennifer Aldrich, Derek Hall, Kim and Pat Carson, Brooke, Colton, Sierra, and Jake. We had a wonderful time trying to solve the many problems of the world, enjoying great food, also the fact that the weather was nice enough for all the children to play outside.

Tammy James was recently named as The Bethel Inn Resort's wedding coordinator, according to a press release. She has an extensive catering and resort hospitality background with over 25 years of experience at The Bethel Inn and Sunday River Resorts. Under the leadership of Mary Brown, long time wedding coordinator, Tammy has been assisting with weddings and group events at The Inn for over a year. Upon Mary's retirement this spring, Tammy was promoted to the weddings and events coordinator. "We couldn't be more pleased with Tammy's enthusiasm and attention to detail," said Allen Connors, managing partner at the Inn. "Tammy's commitment and background at The Inn has already provided many fresh ideas and unique offerings for our visiting brides and grooms."

Memorial Day dawned cold, but dry and bright. It warmed up a little, but the promised warmth only came about 4:30 in the evening and didn't last long. Still, we managed to spend most of the day outside, painting and scraping the house on Pike's Hill. We got a lot done. Thank you, Gloria and Russell, for your help. We have most of the front of the house painted and both porches. Now the upper story needs to be scraped and painted and the other side of the house still needs paint. SOON.

We got the fence put up around the garden so I can actually plant. I have to replant the kale because the chicken (Lefty) ate all the plants I grew from seed. Now I have to hope the new ones do well. Who knew chickens liked kale?! It is also time to plant corn, Brussels sprouts, broccoli, etc. Pumpkins and squash would be nice, too. Wish me luck.

I must say, I missed the parades. I was sure that I would hear them starting up on Main Street and could walk over, being only a half block away. I heard nothing. Soon, I realized it had gotten late and I heard no music playing or anything. Probably it was there and I just spaced it out.

Saturday, June 1, is the day of plant sales. There are at least two in Norway.

1. Alan Day Community Garden 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. there is an organic seedling sale.

2. UU Church on Main Street, there is a seedling sale.

3. Bethel Library Plant Sale 9 to 10 a.m. Affordable, pesticide-free perennials. Things go very quickly there so don't be late.

Sunday, June 2, 7:30 a.m.: Second Annual Stephens Hospital Run for Wellness 5K. Fee is $20. Registration begins at 7:30 a.m. Kids Fun Run begins at 8:15 and is free. A portion of the proceeds will go to The One Fund for those affected by the Boston Marathon Bombings.

Sunday, 10 a.m.: Waterford World's fair Association Cleanup Day at the Fairgrounds. Members are needed for cleanup, raking, sweeping, painting, etc. Lunch will be provided. FMI call Ron at 461-9898.

Monday, June 3, 2 to 4 p.m.: Knitting Group, Waterford Library.

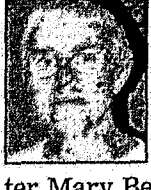

Monday, June 3, 6:30 to 8:30: Socrates Café, Waterford Library. Topic: "Environmental dangers facing Maine: What we can do to protect the state?" Moderator is Connie Allen. FMI call 583-6957.

That is all for this week. Enjoy the promised sun and stay safe.

Anyone having anything they would like to see in this column please call 739-9115.

Ken and I have been to Washington, D.C., where we, and granddaughter Mary Beth Hoover, attended the graduation of Maggie Hoyt from Calhoun University. Also attending were her dad, James and Charlene Hoyt, Crystal Cash, and baby Shawn. It was a nice graduation with a cookout at the girls' apartment following.

Services at the Baptist Church are Sunday School at 9:15, Morning Worship at 10:30, Evening Service at 6 p.m. Wednesday evening at 6:30 is Mid-Week Service. Sunday evening, May 19, Brian Pratt and family, missionaries to India, were present. He preached and they all sang.

Mrs. Pratt was a local girl. Tuesday morning, May 21 Coffee Pot Devotion at the parsonage. Remember, July 22 to 26 is going to be Vacation Bible School, 6 to 8 p.m. nightly.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens will meet on Thursday, June 6, at Kowloon Village Restaurant in Bethel at 11:30 a.m.

Franklin Grange 124 will meet on Monday, June 3, for a regular meeting and election of officers. It starts at 7 p.m.

The Woodstock Historical Society will meet on Saturday, June 8, at the museum at 6 p.m. for a meeting. Program is Wayne Howe talking about Railroads in Woodstock. Refreshments to follow the meeting.

The Woodstock High School Alumni banquet will be Saturday, June 15, at the American Legion Hall in Locke's Mills at 5:30 p.m.

Classes of 1943, 1953, and 1963 will be honored as well as seniors from Telstar High School from Woodstock and Greenwood.

By TOM REMINGTON

I think most people enjoy seeing a moose in the wild. What most aren't aware of is that any moose, during the winter months, can be transporting anywhere from a handful to several thousand blood sucking ticks. There are many myths about these ticks that I would like to straighten out.

Maine has an official estimated moose population of about 76,000, according to Lee Kantar, Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife's (MDIFW) head moose biologist. Mr. Kantar also says that ticks can be a contributing factor in the winter death of moose but not a sole factor. The MDIFW website contains more information on moose ticks but not enough, in my opinion, to help those interested to fully understand how moose get these ticks on them, why, and what happens to both the tick and the moose.

Some time ago I spent many hours doing research on moose ticks and the information I found from a study called, "Winter Ticks on Moose and Other Ungulates: Factors Influencing Their Population Size", William M. Samuel and Dwight A. Welch, seemed to substantiate MDIFW's information about ticks but also includes information to better understand what makes for a bountiful harvest of ticks, what kills the ticks and how badly moose may suffer.

The most common myth about moose ticks that I hear goes something like this: We need a lot of snow (or a little snow) and a lot of cold to kill off the ticks. According to the study in reference, that's not necessarily an easy task to achieve. Samuel and Welch state that we would need 6 consecutive days where air temperatures do not rise above 1.4 degrees Fahrenheit. That's pretty cold and hoping it will last at least 6 days isn't a normal event, or desired either from perspec-

There may be, however, another weather/climate phenomenon that might be more effective in keeping ticks off moose as well as creating a situation where ticks can't survive the winter. It's the wind.

In Maine it is mostly during the months of September and October, perhaps into November, where moose pick up the ticks. Naturally, any unusually cold periods during this time is known to slow down the activity of the ticks. During this time the larvae of the tick begins its slow ascent up plants and shrubs. They wait there, almost in ambush, for a passing moose. As the moose passes by the plants, the larvae attaches itself to the moose, the long winter ride begins and the ticks begin sustaining their own lives by sucking the blood from the moose.

Moose are most active around this same time as well and that only tends to exacerbate the problem.

When the ticks/larvae are waiting on the vegetation looking for a ride, early and deep snow could bury the ticks preventing them from easily getting on the moose. We know cold, to very cold, temperatures at least might slow down the event, but gusty winds will blow the ticks off the plants causing them to begin another long and arduous climb up another plant. Frequent winds can be the most effective in keeping ticks from getting on moose, according to the study. Ticks that don't find a host to feed on for the winter, struggle to survive.

Once the ticks attach themselves to the moose, they "dig in", enjoy the warmth given off by the moose and nourish on the blood.

Ticks alone on a moose, as a rule, do not kill the moose, but it can seriously contribute to the death. Infected moose itch from the sucking insects. This perpetual itching causes the moose to get up and move around, stopping to rub, sometimes rubbing protective fur right off to the bare skin creating exposure and loss of valuable heat. The increased activity uses up stored fat and energy supplies which can greatly diminish a moose's natural ability to deal with prolonged winter cold and snow. Sucking lots of blood weakens the animal and they also spend far too much time dealing with the torment of the ticks than taking care of themselves.

Once Spring arrives, the engorged ticks willingly drop off the moose and the process starts in all over again.

During the winter months, should you venture into the woods and come across where a tick-infested moose has been, the chances are you will also see blood in the snow and ticks that have been rubbed off.

The next time you spot a moose, you can now think about how difficult, at times, its life can be.

High School Varsity Softball

Telstar 2, Hall Dale 1; May 27 - Jessie Dirago scattered three hits and struck out 14 Bulldogs as Telstar beat Hall Dale in nine innings. Jessie also accounted for both of Telstar's runs as she hit a homerun in the fifth inning to give the Rebels a 1-0 lead, and she drive in Autumn Berry in the ninth to plate the winning run. The Rebels threatened in the fifth to extend their lead as Maisey Griffin singled and Sadie Ellsworth reached on an error, but were stranded there. Becca Howard led the defense with three assists and a put out as the Rebels picked up valuable heal points with the win. Telstar is now 9-4 on the season. - Coach Jim Lunney.

Some time ago I spent many hours doing research on moose ticks and the information I found from a study called, "Winter Ticks on Moose and Other Ungulates: Factors Influencing Their Population Size", - William M. Samuel and Dwight A. Welch, seemed to substantiate MDIFW's information about ticks but also includes information to better understand what makes for a bountiful harvest of ticks, what kills the ticks and how badly moose may suffer.

The most common myth about moose ticks that I hear goes something like this: We need a lot of snow (or a little snow) and a lot of cold to kill off the ticks. According to the study in reference, that's not necessarily an easy task to achieve. Samuel and Welch state that we would need 6 consecutive days where air temperatures do not rise above 1.4 degrees Fahrenheit. That's pretty cold and hoping it will last at least 6 days isn't a normal event, or desired either from perspective.

There may be, however, another weather/climate phenomenon that might be more effective in keeping ticks off moose as well as creating a situation where ticks can't survive the winter. It's the wind.

In Maine it is mostly during the months of September and October, perhaps into November, where moose pick up the ticks. Naturally, any unusually cold periods during this time is known to slow down the activity of the ticks. During this time the larvae of the tick begins its slow ascent up plants and shrubs. They wait there, almost in ambush, for a passing moose. As the moose passes by the plants, the larvae attaches itself to the moose, the long winter ride begins and the ticks begin sustaining their own lives by sucking the blood from the moose.

Moose are most active around this same time as well and that only tends to exacerbate the problem.

When the ticks/larvae are waiting on the vegetation looking for a ride, early and deep snow could bury the ticks preventing them from easily getting on the moose. We know cold, to very cold, temperatures at least might slow down the event, but gusty winds will blow the ticks off the plants causing them to begin another long and arduous climb up another plant. Frequent winds can be the most effective in keeping ticks from getting on moose, according to the study. Ticks that don't find a host to feed on for the winter, struggle to survive.

Once the ticks attach themselves to the moose, they "dig in", enjoy the warmth given off by the moose and nourish on the blood.

Ticks alone on a moose, as a rule, do not kill the moose, but it can seriously contribute to the death. Infected moose itch from the sucking insects. This perpetual itching causes the moose to get up and move around, stopping to rub, sometimes rubbing protective fur right off to the bare skin creating exposure and loss of valuable heat. The increased activity uses up stored fat and energy supplies which can greatly diminish a moose's natural ability to deal with prolonged winter cold and snow. Sucking lots of blood weakens the animal and they also spend far too much time dealing with the torment of the ticks than taking care of themselves.

Once Spring arrives, the engorged ticks willingly drop off the moose and the process starts in all over again.

During the winter months, should you venture into the woods and come across where a tick-infested moose has been, the chances are you will also see blood in the snow and ticks that have been rubbed off.

The next time you spot a moose, you can now think about how difficult, at times, its life can be.

Puzzle Mountain hike celebrates Hillary's climb

Sixty years ago on May 29, 1953, Sir Edmund Hillary became the first man to conquer Mt. Everest, and did so with Grape-Nuts in hand.

To celebrate the historic feat, Post Grape-Nuts recruited outdoor enthusiasts across the country to recreate the cereal's ascent to the highest point on Earth at a mountain of their choice as part of the Summit Sampler program.

Local hiker Carol Bourque of Gilead has been selected as a Summit Sampler and will climb Puzzle Mountain in Newry June 2, distributing Grape-Nuts Fit to fellow hikers along the way.

Carol has been a casual hiker for most of her life and within the past two years, since moving to Maine, she has become a more avid hiker, hiking at least once a week. Carol is also a volunteer with Mahoosuc Pathways, Inc.

Between March 26, 2013 and April 19, 2013, hikers of all ages and abilities submitted entries to www.GrapeNutsSummitSampler.com for a chance to be selected as a Summit Sampler. Carol is one of the 60 selected hikers that will participate in this nationwide celebration.

Each Summit Sampler has received a kit with cereal samples to distribute during their trek, a backpack, t-shirt, water bottle, carabiner, and "summit flag".

Participants who complete their journey and submit photos of their adventure will also receive a $500 check. Carol will donate one-half of her check to Mahoosuc Pathways.

The hike will also serve to showcase Mahoosuc Pathway's recent trail redesign on the Woodsum Spur trail, a part of the Grafton Loop Trail to Puzzle Mountain.

WMNF artists named

Photographer John Anderson and environmental artist Kyle Browne have been chosen as Artists in Residence for the White Mountain National Forest for 2013. John Anderson of Campton, N.H., is a graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design. He is the owner of On the Spot Photography, and has been teaching photography at Plymouth State University since 2004.

Massachusetts artist Kyle Brown is a graduate of the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn and received her MEd Arts, Community and Education, from Lesley University. She is currently Director of the Cambridge, Mass., Creativity Commons, which links students and teachers to creativity through arts integration and project-based learning.

The residency offers a minimum of a three-week period during which the artists have time to work on their art while living on the forest.

Obituaries

CAROL LYNES
BREARLEY

Carol Lynes Brearley, 75, died May 26, 2013 in Lyme, N.H., where she recently relocated to be near family during her illness. Carol was a long-time resident of Bethel, Maine, moving there from Atlanta, Ga., in 1993 to follow her dream of opening a B & B. There she and her ex-husband Gary Brearley, founded and established the Briar Lea Inn and Restaurant.

Carol was born in Lancaster, Pa., a daughter of Elmer E. Lynes and Eleanor Gable Lynes. She graduated from Manor Joint High School in 1955. She competed and excelled in swimming and held many amateur state swimming records that remained unbroken for years. She also taught life saving for the Red Cross.

Carol graduated from State Teachers College, Millersville, Pa., in 1961 with a double major in English and Social Studies. In the summers during her college years she was a counselor at Pine Cliff Camp in Harrison, Maine, which is when she cultivated her love for the Pine Tree State. She taught swimming and water skiing to the campers.

After graduating college she became a high-school English teacher and taught in Westchester, Pa., Orange County, Calif., and DeFuniak Springs, Fla. During this time she had five children and was a devoted, loving mother and eventually an adoring grandmother.

Carol was an enthusiastic antique collector and a passionate poet. She was a member of the Senior College in Maine and was a zealous reader. She especially loved mysteries. She enjoyed cooking, gardening and doing crossword puzzles. She was creative and always added a special touch of beauty in all of her ventures.

She was pre-deceased by her parents and brothers, Michael Lynes and Edward Lynes.

She is survived by daughters Jennifer Brearley, Jessica Havrda, and Justine Perkins and sons Dudley Earl Brearley and Jason Gary Brearley, son-in-law Matthew Havrda, and ex-husband (and dear friend) Gary Brearley as well as her grandchildren, Zachery, Dudley Junior, Willough, Charlie, Madison, McKenzie, Ellie and Casey. She will be dearly missed by all.

A family memorial service will be held in Carol's honor in the late summer. Donations in memory of Carol can be made to the Special Olympics. <http://www.specialolympics.org/> Special Olympics, 1133 19th Street NW, Washington, DC 20036. Condolences may be sent to her daughter: Jessica Havrda, 122 Etna Road, Etna, NH 03750.

BLAKE E. MACKAY
June 27, 1925-
May 24, 2013

Blake E. Mackay of Bethel, died May 24, 2013, with his loving family by his side. He was born in Drew Plantation, the ninth and youngest child of Amy and Ernest Mackay. Anyone who knew him knew he graduated from Wytopitlock High School. He will also be long remembered as a devoted family man, for his joy in hearing a good story, his big vegetable garden with its prized potatoes, his love of facts, his ability to fix almost anything, and his expertise as an electrician.

Blake joined the Army Air Corps during WWII and was stationed in the Philippines and Guam. He moved to Bethel in 1947 where he met his future wife, Rachel Brown. During the time they were courting, he spent two years in Boston and in 1951 graduated from Franklin Technical Institute ready to begin his lifelong career as a Master Electrician. The next year, Blake and Rachel married, and settled in the village of Bethel where they would remain for the next sixty-one years. They raised four children together, and later they happily saw their daughters marry and give them eight perfect grandchildren.

Blake was an electrician for fifteen years before he was selected as a State Electrical Inspector in 1966 and then the first Chief State Electrical Inspector of Maine. After his retirement in 1994, Blake continued to volunteer his services to many organizations in Bethel. He was a member of the Masons (since 1952), Shriners, American Legion, a former Bethel Firefighter, a Bethel Selectman in the early 1960s and an original incorporator of the Bethel Savings Bank.

He is survived by his wife Rachel, their children, spouses and grandchildren: Susan and Scott Parker of Bethel and Ross and Gavin Parker; Blaine MacKay of Brooklyn Heights, N.Y.; Sandy and Mike Robinson of Wells, and Patrick, Alex, Sydney and Holly Robinson; and Mary and Carlos Pita of Simsbury, Conn., and Kyle and Brandon Pita. He is also survived by his sisters, Phyllis MacKay and Katheryn Eames, and his brother, Roderick MacKay, and many nieces and nephews whom he adored. The family is very grateful for his many loyal friends.

In addition to his parents, he was predeceased by his brothers, Bruce and Donald MacKay; his sisters, Dorothy Rollins, Barbara Lundquist, and Harriet Ranslow and his brothers and sisters-in law, Jim and Bea Brown, Alfred and Faith Brown, Arlene Brown, Vern Rollins, Rodney Eames, Arnold Lundquist, Grant Ranslow, and Blanche and Jennie MacKay; and nieces Linda Brown and Bonnie Eames Bowden.

The family requests that anyone wishing to honor Blake's memory make a donation to the Masonic Lodge #97, Blake MacKay Children's Fund, P.O. Box 1297, Bethel, ME 04217 where a fund has been set up to support area children accessing medical care through the Shriner's Hospital in Boston.

Funeral Services will be held at the Bethel Methodist Church at 11 a.m. on June 1.

ASA D. SESSIONS

Asa D. Sessions, age 72, of Owenton, Ky., passed away May 12, 2013, at his residence.

Born May 6, 1941, in Rumford Corner, Maine, he was the son of the late Floyd and Yvonne LaBerge Sessions. Asa was a retired truck driver.

Your bonds and CDs are no exception.

You have options when it comes to your maturing bonds and CDs. Let Edward Jones help you decide.

Edward Jones offers a variety of investment choices. Fortunately, if your bonds and CDs are maturing soon, this may be an ideal time to review your overall investment strategy.

CDs offered by Edward Jones are bank-issued and FDIC-insured up to $250,000 (principal and interest accrued but not yet paid) per depositor, per insured depository institution, for each account ownership category. Please visit www.fdic.gov or contact your financial advisor for additional information. Equity investments are subject to market risks, including the potential loss of principal invested. Equity investments are not fixed-rate investments and may not distribute dividends (income). Bond investments are subject to yield and market value fluctuations. If a bond is sold prior to maturity, the amount received from the sale may be less than the amount originally invested. Bond values may decline in a rising interest rate environment. All CDs sold by Edward Jones are registered with the Depository Trust Corp. (DTC).

Call your local financial advisor today to discover how our personalized approach and long-term philosophy may make sense for your needs.
